

By providing your email address on this form, you authorize the office of Jennifer Novello, LMSW, ACSW, PLLC to store information about you and communicate with you by way of internet and electronic mail. While use of the internet and email has many benefits, such as speed of communication and ease of record keeping and convenience, the internet is not a secure environment, and confidentiality cannot be guaranteed.

Every effort is made by this office to keep your information private to the extent possible. However, once information has been entered online or an email has been sent, the information may be accessed by individuals other than the intended recipient(s), and is no longer under the sender's control. Email systems often store email interactions, and emails sent from a personal computer may be readable by any individual with access to that computer.

In providing an email address, it is recommended that you choose a personal one that you do not share with any other individual, although this office may reply to you by way of any other email address from which you may initiate a communication.

---

Email Address